

INTERNATIONAL SCIENTIFIC CONFERENCE
COMMON TOMORROW 12-13 MARCH 2024
ARCHITECTURE ENVIRONMENT IN THE FACE OF CONTEMPORARY CHALLENGES

KIELCE UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY
FACULTY OF CIVIL ENGINEERING AND ARCHITECTURE
DEPARTMENT OF ARCHITECTURAL AND URBAN THEORY AND DESIGN

The main objective of the conference is to organise an interdisciplinary discussion forum for researchers, specialists, practitioners, doctoral students and students representing various scientific disciplines to discuss contemporary challenges of the architectural environment in the context of rapid civilisational development, i.e, increasing population density, ageing societies, and the phenomenon of growing cities.

The conference will provide an excellent opportunity to communicate research and present scientific papers in the field of architecture and urban planning in the following areas:

Sustainable design for climate change mitigation:

- Sustainable design, sustainability requirements, and the degree of sustainability of the built environment, universal, eco-friendly, energy-efficient.
- Intelligent solutions; smart building technologies.
- Innovative technologies and new materials, challenges and opportunities for low-tech architecture.
- Zero Net Energy (ZNE) buildings, passive design strategies, biophilic design.
- Urban planning for sustainability, disaster-resilient design.

Inclusive design:

- Social equity, accessibility, affordability, community engagement.
- Inclusive measures to remove architectural barriers, accessible, smart city, friendly architecture.
- Design challenges, civilizational and housing needs of large cities, architecture suitable for the elderly.
- Issues of the psychology and sociology of architecture and space, inclusive design.
- Interdisciplinarity in architectural design.

Cities of tomorrow:

- Contemporary forms of the architectural environment, innovation in architecture.
- Contemporary urbanisation, suburbanisation and de-urbanisation.
- Challenges of urban space revitalisation.
- Historical assets in shaping of the environment.
- Landscape qualities in shaping of the built environment.
- Objects of media architecture, the impact of new media art objects on urban space.
- Good practice.
